

LECTURE & PANEL DISCUSSION

SURPRISING OPPORTUNITIES FOR WELL BEING THROUGH THE END OF LIFE

Ira Byock, MD, FAAHPM

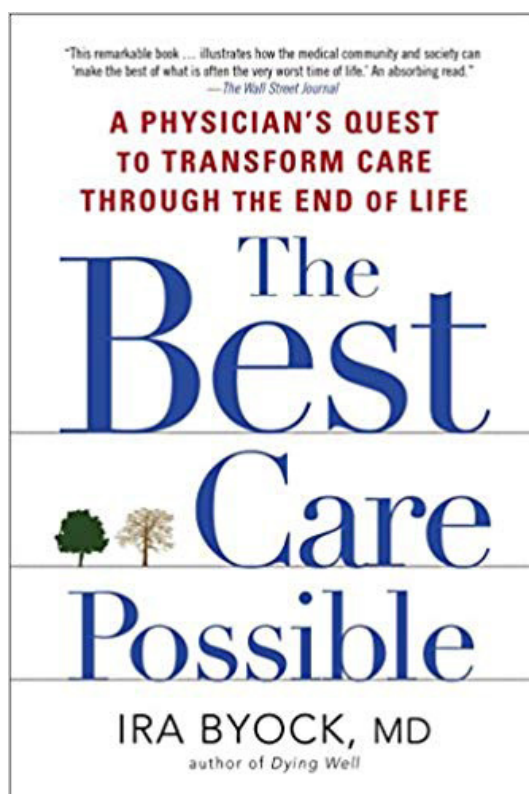

Monday, March 30th
D'Youville Academic Center
3:00 - 5:00pm

Free & Open to the Public
Light Refreshments to Follow

Illness and dying cannot be fully encompassed by the problem-based model of medicine. Beyond symptoms and suffering, dying is a profound personal experience for the individual as well as for his or her family. The concept of “personhood” and the conceptual framework of human development will be presented as tools for understanding the nature of suffering and nature of opportunity associated with the time of human life we call “dying.”

Ira Byock, M.D., FAAHPM is a leading palliative care physician, author, and public advocate for improving care through the end of life. He is founder and chief medical officer of the Institute for Human Caring at Providence St. Joseph Health. Author of Dying Well and The Best Care Possible.

LEARN MORE

IraByock.org | InstituteForHumanCaring.org

SPONSORED BY

DYOUVILLE

CONVERSATIONS IN HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES
PATRICIA H. GARMAN SCHOOL OF NURSING
ROCHE CENTER OF MISSION INTEGRATION

SCAN TO RSVP

 Health Foundation
for Western & Central New York
Investing in Better Health for People and Communities

HOSPICE & PALLIATIVE CARE
BUFFALO